

It was bedtime in {hometown}. One by one the windows went dark, until a single light stayed on, high up in {childName}'s room.

Snug under the covers, {childName} closed {possessive} eyes and took a soft breath. "Let's take a dream-walk," a quiet voice whispered.

{childName} listened to the slow sound of {possessive} breath. The walls melted into mist, and {pronoun} rose up into the starry night, where a path wound between the trees.

{childName} set off down the path. "Look up," the voice said. "Pause. Breathe. Listen."

Art: scenery (or reuse a walking pose) — starlit path; "look up" handled by the sky.

"This way," the voice whispered, quiet as a secret. {childName} looked all around — but no one was there. The harder {pronoun} listened, the brighter a small door began to shine ahead.

The door swung open — and beyond it, the trees fell away into open sky. "When we listen to our quiet," the voice said, "new worlds whisper back."

{childName} stepped through and floated free among the stars. "This is a place your quiet made," said the voice. "When the day feels too big, breathe and come back."

"One more breath," said the voice. The stars dimmed like candle flames, and {childName} drifted down, light as a feather, until {possessive} feet met the dewy grass of a new morning.

{childName} noticed a trail of {trailType} and felt a tiny yes inside. "You can follow me anytime," the voice said. "Listening helps you find the way."

Wind whooshed past as {childName} ran, quick and free, up a long green hill. "Listening brings courage," the voice said. "It can feel like joy."

At the top, {childName} stopped to catch {possessive} breath and looked out far and wide. "Sometimes it helps to stop and see how far you've come," the voice said.

Down the hill, lunch was waiting in the grass. "Hungry? Let's eat," the voice said. "Being kind to your body is listening, too."

Full and happy, {childName} followed a new sound — down a stream, around a bend, until the trees opened wide and blue. The sea! "Follow a sound with your whole heart," said the voice. "It leads somewhere new."

"When you look closely, you can find beautiful things," the voice said. {childName} paused and found a shining shell.

Art: reuse a crouching pose (or scenery: a shell close-up in the sand).

At the end of the sand, a dark cave yawned open. {childName} stopped short — it looked a little scary. "Pause. Breathe. Listen," said the voice, and {childName} stepped in. The dark wasn't scary at all.

A crystal cave glimmered. "Small steps. Watch where your feet go," the voice said. "Careful can be brave."

Deep inside, a thread of light hummed like a far-off song. {childName} followed it through a crack — and tumbled out beneath flowers as tall as trees!

{childName} gasped in surprise — everything here felt wonderfully huge. "You'll be amazed by what you can grow," the voice said.

Past the flowers, the path faded and the voice grew faint. For a moment, {childName} stood all alone, unsure which way to go. Then {pronoun} closed {possessive} eyes and went still — stiller than ever. Slowly, like a thread to follow, the voice came back.

The voice felt very close now, and a trail led deeper between the trees. "To hear me clearly, go quiet inside," it said. "That quiet is your heart."

The trail opened into a ring of golden light, then stopped. {childName} sensed something special and took one gentle breath. In the middle of the glow, something began to stir.

{animalDisplayName} stepped from the light, warm and bright. "I've been with you the whole time," it said. "I am your quiet inside voice."

{childName} laughed out loud — the voice had been {possessive} own all along! {animalDisplayName} nestled close. "Now you know how to find me," it said. "Whenever you're unsure, go quiet and listen."

"Ready to fly home?" asked {animalDisplayName}. Up they rose, off through the stars {hometownReturn}. "Wherever you go — pause, breathe, listen. I'm always with you."

Back in {hometown}, {childName} sank into bed, and {animalDisplayName} curled up close. Always near, always listening — the quiet voice right where it had always been: inside.